Dogs save injured friend

The heartwarming moment two stray dogs saved an injured pup lying in the middle of a busy road was captured on camera in Changzhou, China. The family dog had squeezed out of its front door and was hit by a car, which left it stranded as vehicles passed by. After several brave attempts, the heroic strays managed to pull the injured pup to safety, saving its life. Even better? The two furry heroes have now been rescued too!

Save the butterflies - skip the mow!

Butterfly Conservation is asking people to stop mowing their lawns from April to September to help struggling butterflies. 2024 was one of the worst years ever for butterflies in Britain, with over half of UK species in trouble. Letting grass grow longer creates safe homes for these important pollinators. Expert Richard Fox says putting away the mower can make a "real, immediate difference" for butterflies and other wildlife!

Pocket power!

Eight year old Georgia from Ipswich, England, took on one of the UK's biggest supermarkets and won! After finding out that Sainsbury's girls' school trousers had fake or tiny pockets, she wrote a powerful letter to them saying, "Girls need to carry things too!" Now, thanks to her campaign, Sainsbury's new school trousers come with proper pockets. Go Georgia!

12 year old invents new card game

Henry, 12, from Solihull, England, turned his love of pirates into a fun new card game called Waves of Fortune. In the game, players sail the high seas, collecting "sea loot" and making clever choices to win. Since launching it at Christmas, Henry has sold over 160 packs, with orders coming in from places like Canada, India, and Ukraine. He's already donated over £200 to charity and gives £1 from every game sold to good causes.

Millions watch moose on the move

A live TV broadcast of migrating moose has become an unlikely TV hit in Sweden. Millions from around the world have tuned in to watch The Great Moose Migration, a 24-hour livestream which follows elk (or moose) as they cross rivers and wander through Sweden's northern forests in search of summer feeding grounds. Viewers say the broadcast has a calming effect and is "like therapy," offering a peaceful break from busy lives!
